Developing a Pilot Peer Education Program for Incarcerated Individuals

September 26, 2024

Presented by
Crystal Chaparro, Alan Martinez, Garrett Ruzicka

My next session discussed how ECHO Colorado—in collaboration with @cdphe, @coloradodoc, and @projectechohq—is starting a pilot peer education program (PEP) for incarcerated individuals to educate and empower them to train their peers on the prevention of high-risk behaviors. Why is this so important? Quoting the presenters, "Prison health is community health".

The pursuit of "fit"

Unique challenges faced by female junior investigators in STEM fields

Stephanie Grim, MS, MPH

Healthcare Research Biostatistician

University of Colorado

Objectives:

1. This small group discussion is designed to provide space for female and junior investigators to share relevant stories while allowing for open and natural conversation regarding the unique challenges faced by women working in STEM fields.
2. Bring various perspectives and discuss varying viewpoints on factors contributing to a suitable workplace "fit" in academia.
3. Dispel myths, ask questions, cultivate a sense of community, camaraderie, and empowerment.
4. Provide resources for ongoing support.
