

CCPM Affiliates and Members – Guidelines (Eligibility, Expectations, Benefits)

Members and affiliates will have the opportunity to be part of the joint effort between UHealth and CCPM to implement personalized medicine to improve patient care. Numerous CCPM efforts have been, and will continue to be, shaped by individuals on campus who are connected to but not directly employed by CCPM. This status can also provide opportunities to collaborate directly with the health system in unique ways. Members and affiliates participate through existing working group structures.

	Affiliate	Member
Eligibility
Faculty interested in learning about CCPM/Biobank	X	X
Faculty interested in some participation but not leadership (i.e. presenting at a CCPM seminar)	X	X
Faculty interested in participating as a contributing member (i.e. serving on a working committee, as requested)		X
Expectations
Be an advocate and champion for CCPM within a committee member's sphere of influence.	X	X
Attend CCPM seminar series	X	X
Follow CCPM's media policy	X	X
Present at a CCPM seminar series, as requested		X
Serve on a working committee, as requested		X
Benefits
Entrée to the CCPM Biobank community and related research activities; Gain an understanding of how to interact with the Biobank.	X	X
Networking with clinical and research faculty across all series who have a focus or interest in personalized medicine.	X	X
Use CCPM membership as a name affiliation on a grant submission.	X	X
Academic advancement: Service. Participating on a CCPM working committee may fulfill the academic Service requirement. CCPM can offer a letter documenting contributions for the purpose of SOM promotion process.		X
Invitation to the CCPM annual retreat	X	X
Subsidized participation in the CCPM annual retreat		X
Access to AHSB 7th floor hoteling space		X