If a person has more positive sero markers it is more likely they will devolve RA, and the time until onset of clinically apparent RA symptoms will likely be shorter.