UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO

ANSCHUTZ MEDICAL CAMPUS

July 2024

Hello Rural Program Friends,

It's been a busy month, with Rural Program faculty and staff working on wrapping up one academic year and preparing for the next.

In the last few weeks, we welcomed the new Class of 2028 Rural Program students and welcomed our Rural LIC students back to Denver. Final evaluations for LIC students are still being collected, so there is still time to complete yours!

Thank you for all you do,

Welcome Rural Program Class of 2028!

The Class of 2028 Rural Program students joined our faculty and staff for a 2-day orientation just before their official first day of medical school. It's always great to meet new students and see the relationships already start to form within a cohort. Their enthusiasm and commitment to rural health are truly inspiring, and we look forward to supporting them on their journey.

Welcome back Rural LIC students!

We are delighted to welcome back the Class of 2026 students. This group of students just completed their core clinical year in 18 communities across Colorado, and we are proud of their hard work and growth.

Over the past 10 months, these students worked to identify a public health need in their community and develop a project addressing this need. They presented these projects to each other and to first-year Rural Program students, shedding light on important health issues and sharing their innovative contributions towards solutions. We can't wait to see what they do next!
