UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO
ANSCHUTZ MEDICAL CAMPUS

SYMPOSIUM

GO TO CWHR.ORG TO REGISTER

Saturday, February 23, 2019

General Information

This program is designed to meet the educational needs of physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, nurses, medical students, cardiac rehabilitation specialists, diabetes educators, and many others involved in women's health.

Accreditation

The University of Colorado School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The University of Colorado School of Medicine designates this live activity for a maximum of 4.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits.™

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to

1. Identify and consider implementation of methods to engage patients and their support systems in diagnosis, treatment, and continuing support of depression during pregnancy and postpartum.
2. Develop skills in delivering action plans for the treatment of depression, anxiety, and substance abuse that can be used with patients in their own practices.
3. Identify approaches to build bridges to other community resources for mental health treatments they cannot offer within their practice.
4. Delineate differences in physiology and pharmacokinetics/pharmacodynamics between men and women which could lead to potential variation in treatment response with medications used in the management of diabetes and cardiovascular disease.
5. Understand the role of non-invasive imaging and non traditional labs in calculating cardiovascular disease risk.
6. Learn how to talk about the 2018 Physical Activity Guidelines and help patients adhere to these guidelines by using technological tools that are available.
