Instructions to Division Heads regarding potential letter writers

Please include the names and contact information four potential letter writers. The Department will select individuals and solicit letters on behalf of the candidate. Ideal letter writers are those that have had direct clinical interactions with the nominee allowing them to speak to their clinical excellence. Letter writers can be peers within the institution (preferably those individuals who have interacted with the candidate outside the candidate's division) or external to the medical school. At least two of the four letter writers should be outside the Department of Medicine. Letters from those external to the Department and campus (e.g., referring physicians) are highly encouraged.
