Have You Had a Concussion in the Past 5 Years? Research Study Investigates Concussions and Brain Health in Older Adults 65+

This study involves 2 research visits: a baseline and a one year follow-up visit

Each Study Visit Requires:

- Health History Review
- Neurological Exam
- Set of tests that assess memory, attention, behavior and other thinking skills
- Blood Sample
- Brain MRI

You May Qualify If You Are:

- 65 years or older
- Have had a concussion (less than 30 minutes loss of consciousness) within the past 5 years, but not within the past 6 months
- Have medical records documenting your concussion
- In good general health
- Have not been diagnosed with a memory disorder
