

Worksheet #2: Scholarship of Application

1. List a project you are working on (or thinking of starting) that might be considered scholarship of application, discovery, teaching, or integration.

2. What educational concept does this project apply, study, teach, or integrate?

3. Complete the following table for your project

Characteristics of scholarship:	Have you addressed?	Implications for planning?
Clear goals <ul style="list-style-type: none">▪ Is the basic purpose of the project well defined?▪ Do the objectives of the project address a problem of importance or consequence?▪ Are the objectives realistic and achievable?
Adequate preparation <ul style="list-style-type: none">▪ Does the educator show an understanding of existing scholarship relevant to the project?▪ Does the project benefit from the educator's own skills and expertise?▪ Are resources used appropriately to advance the project?

Adapted from Tewksbury L, English R, Christy C, Gigante J, Spoto-Cannons A, Talib N, Hanson J (2009) Scholarship of Application: When Service is Scholarship—A Workshop for Medical Educators. MedEdPORTAL:

<http://services.aamc.org/30/mededportal/servlet/s/segment/mededportal/?subid=7734>

Characteristics of scholarship:	Have you addressed?	Implications for planning?
Appropriate methods <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Are the methods chosen and applied appropriate for the project? ▪ Are the methods modified as necessary?
Significant results <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ What is the evidence of the success of the project? ▪ Are the goals achieved? ▪ Do the results contribute notably to the field in a manner that invites further exploration?
Effective presentation <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Is the presentation of the project in a suitable format? ▪ Is it well organized and clear? ▪ Will it reach intended audience?
Reflective critique <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Has the educator thoughtfully assessed the project, using his/her own perceptions as well as the critique from others, to refine, enhance or expand the original concept?

Adapted from Tewksbury L, English R, Christy C, Gigante J, Spoto-Cannons A, Talib N, Hanson J (2009) Scholarship of Application: When Service is Scholarship—A Workshop for Medical Educators. MedEdPORTAL:
<http://services.aamc.org/30/mededportal/servlet/s/segment/mededportal/?subid=7734>