About the role

Red Wagon Therapy is hiring full-time or part-time physical therapist for our Early Intervention team in the Denver Metro area. You'll work with infants and toddlers from birth to age 3, and with their families, in homes and community settings. Using play-based, family-centered intervention, you'll help children reach their functional developmental goals.

You'll get collaborative mentoring and training matched to your interests while you build your pediatric caseload.

About Red Wagon Therapy

We're a small Denver Metro business providing Early Intervention and preschool-based services. We connect families with skilled physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech therapists and early childhood special educators who serve children ages birth to 5. Our team is engaging, supportive and collaborative, and we're committed to an inclusive workplace that values diversity and encourages professional growth.

What you'll do

- Manage your own caseload, including all communication with children's families
- Provide high-quality physical therapy in natural environments to improve children's functional abilities
- Track each child's progress and adjust intervention as needed
- Coach families on intervention plans, exercises and adaptive techniques
- Conduct multidisciplinary evaluations to determine Early Intervention eligibility, and complete the required documentation
- Participate in IFSP meetings to support each family's individualized outcomes
- Keep accurate, timely documentation of visits and evaluations

- Follow Medicaid requirements when Medicaid is the funding source, including Electronic Visit Verification (EVV)
- Maintain your Early Intervention provider portal profile

What you need

Required

- Colorado physical therapist license through DORA
- Colorado driver's license and auto insurance
- Strong communication skills with children, families and care teams
- Ability to work independently and as part of a multidisciplinary team
- Commitment to family-centered care
- Good organization and time management

Preferred

- Experience providing therapy in home or community settings
- Pediatric clinical experience, including clinical rotations

Pay and benefits

- Pay: $62-68 per hour, depending on experience
- Flexible schedule and control over your caseload
- Collaborative mentoring and training based on your needs and interests
- Team meetings with support, coaching and team-based problem solving
- Continuing education assistance
- Professional liability insurance
- FAMLI coverage
- 401(k) program
- Health Insurance for full time

Schedule and location

This is a field-based role. You'll travel to families' homes and community settings across the Denver Metro area and set your own visit schedule. Full-time and part-time positions are available.
