Scholarly Agenda

Dr. Magnusson's research employs community-based participatory research methods within a population health framework to a) describe the distribution of health outcomes within a population, b) understand the contribution and interconnectedness of multiple determinants of health within a population, and c) inform the development of innovative, community-based solutions that advance health equity for traditionally underserved children.

Ongoing Support

Mueller (PI) 5K12HD055931-13

09/01/2018 – 08/31/2021

Role: Scholar, Project PI

Reducing disparities in therapy utilization through community-based participatory research. The objectives of this study include: 1) employing a robust, community-based participatory research process (Boot Camp Translation) to create a novel developmental screening and therapy decision aid for use in pediatric primary care settings; 2) determining the feasibility and acceptability of the decision aid in a pediatric primary care setting; and 3) testing the clinical effectiveness of the decision aid (relative to standard care) in enhancing shared decision-making and increasing therapy utilization rates. ($360,000)

Magnusson D (PI) Center on Health Services Training and Research 01/01/2020 – 12/31/2020

Use of Health Information Technology to Guide Therapy Referrals for Children at Risk for Developmental Delay. The long-term goal of this work is to develop a clinical decision support tool that leverages child and family data to better predict developmental trajectories for children at risk for developmental delay through the following specific aims: 1) identify child and family level factors associated with developmental outcomes at ages 3 and 5 years; and 2) develop a robust predictive tool that will serve as the basis for a clinical decision support tool for children ages 5 years and younger.

McManus B (PI) Academy of Pediatric Physical Therapy 01/01/2020 – 12/31/2020
Role: Co-Investigator

Transition of Children with Neuromotor Disabilities from the NICU to Early Intervention. Specific Aims: 1) Examine the associations between infant characteristics and service timing, type, and intensity among a sample of NICU graduates with or at risk for neuromotor disability who were referred to Early Intervention; 2) Describe the associations between service timing, type and intensity and functional outcomes among a sample of NICU graduates with or at risk for neuromotor disability who were referred to Early Intervention.

Under Review

Magnusson D (PI) AHRQ K01 04/01/2020 – 03/31/2023

Parents as Empowered Consumers: Development and Pilot of a Parent Activation Intervention to Enhance Shared Decision-Making with Parents of Children with Developmental Delay. Specific Aims: 1) Assess parental knowledge, attitudes (values and priorities), beliefs, and skills as they relate to early identification/intervention; 2) Co-develop a parent activation intervention alongside parents, family members, and healthcare professionals; and 3) Conduct a pilot pragmatic trial to assess the intervention's acceptability and feasibility in pediatric primary care. Magnusson D (PI) CCTSI Community Engagement Program 11/01/2018 – 10/31/2019

Promoting Early Identification and Intervention for Children with or at Risk for Developmental Delay. The primary objective of this pilot project is to inform the dissemination and evaluation of a community-based tool that (1) enhances shared decision-making between caregivers, family members, and service providers, and (2) improves early identification and intervention for children with or at risk for DD. This aligns with our broader goal of developing a community translational research agenda that raises awareness, highlights the importance of community-based solutions, and reduces racial/ethnic disparities in the early identification of children with DD living in the 2040 footprint, and their use of early intervention services. ($30,000)

Magnusson D (PI) UCD-Department of PM&R 03/01/2017 – 02/28/2018

Development of a novel decision aid to improve early identification and intervention for children with developmental delay. The objectives of this study include: 1) assessing community beliefs regarding the help-seeking pathway for children with developmental delay, 2) identifying factors that promote or impede the integration of standard developmental surveillance screening guidelines and pediatric therapy service recommendations with community beliefs, and 3) developing a novel decision aid that integrates evidence-based guidelines and service recommendations. ($10,000)

Magnusson D (PI) Academic Pediatric Association/Bright Futures 03/01/2015 – 02/28/2016
Anticipatory guidance for parents of children with developmental delay: Exploring the role of parent beliefs in Early Intervention utilization. The purpose of this study was to explore the complex interrelationship between parent beliefs and early intervention use in a large metropolitan area in the United States, and to inform family-centered anticipatory guidance for parents of children with developmental delay. ($15,000)

Magnusson D (PI) Foundation for Physical Therapy, PODSII 09/01/2013 – 08/31/2014
Individual, Community, and State Level determinants of Unmet Need for Physical, Occupational, or Speech Therapy Services among Young Children with Developmental Delay. The purpose of this study was to examine the individual, community, and state-level determinants of unmet need for physical, occupational, or speech therapy services among children with developmental delay living in the United States. ($15,000)
