

Sustainability, Value, and Cost:

Developing Enduring Health Care Interventions

Laura Panattoni, PhD

Senior Staff Scientist
Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center

Micro-Costing: A Deceptively Simple Method for Estimating the Costs of Deploying Implementation Strategies and Evidence-Based Interventions

Learning Objectives:

- Understand what is micro-costing, why is micro-costing data important, and what type of studies include micro-costing.
- Learn about the strengths and limitations of three approaches to implementation strategy cost assessment based on micro-costing.
- Understand the five most common types of micro-costing data collection tools and their tradeoffs.
- Recognize the limitations of micro-costing methodology and directions for future methodological development.

January 25, 2021

12:00-1:00 PM MT

RSVP Here

zoom

*Will be sent via registration email